THE IMPORTANCE OF THE FAMILY FOR THE OFS AND FOR THE YOUFRA

THE FAMILY IN THE RULE AND GENERAL CONSTITUTIONS OF THE OFS

Fr. Martín Bitzer, OFMConv

Introduction

The fact that a rule so small as that of the Secular Franciscans devotes an entire article (17) to the family, tells us of the importance of family in the life of a Secular Franciscan.¹

The family is an essential part in the "form of life" of every Secular Franciscan. The OFS Constitutions reaffirm this idea when they say: “Secular Franciscans should consider their own family to be the first place in which to live their Christian commitment and Franciscan vocation.” (Const. OFS 24.1)

This article has two parts. In the first we present the text of the Rule which speaks of the family and we offer our comment about it.

Considering, then, that the General Constitutions of the OFS are the application of what is contained in the Rule in its details, we think that only reading the texts constitutes the best commentary on what the family is as contained briefly in the Rule. And so we decided to quote the texts of the Constitutions dealing with the topic without giving an explanation.

1. OFS Rule 17

The text

In their family they should cultivate the Franciscan spirit of peace, fidelity, and respect for life, striving to make of it a sign of a world already renewed in Christ (Rule of Leo XIII, II,8). By living the grace of matrimony, husbands and wives in particular should bear witness in the world to the love of Christ for his Church. They should joyfully accompany their children on their human and spiritual journey by providing a simple and open Christian education and being attentive to the vocation of each child (Vatican II, Const. on the Church, 41; Decree on Lay Apostolate, 30).

¹ The Rule of the SFO is composed of 26 articles
The comment

The Rule takes into account the protagonists of the family: the couple (husband and wife) and their children.

The Rule tells us, moreover, what constitutes the "Franciscan spirit" that can be lived within the family environment:

- Peace;
- Fidelity and
- Respect for life.

Peace

Pope Francis said to the religious leaders of the world that it is possible to live it if you can learn it first in the family. In fact, the expression: artisan of peace refers to something that we learn at home and then spread to other areas of life:

> Each one of us is called to be an artisan of peace, by uniting and not dividing, by extinguishing hatred and not holding on to it, by opening paths to dialogue and not by constructing new walls! Let us dialogue and meet each other in order to establish a culture of dialogue in the world, the culture of encounter.²

What peace there would be in every family if it were established in the culture of dialogue and encounter, where one learns to love and not to hate, to build and unite rather than to divide and destroy.

Fidelity

This is a value that you learn first within the family. The fidelity of spouses is the fundamental basis of any other fidelity: father, mother, filial and fraternal.

“The way spouses love each other and affirm the value of fidelity is a profound witness for their own family, the Church, and the world.” (Const. OFS 24.1)

We can ask ourselves: where can spouses find help? What is the foundation of such fidelity?

“Married couples find in the Rule of the SFO an effective aid in their own journey of Christian life, aware that, in the sacrament of matrimony, their love shares in the love that Christ has for his Church”. (Ibid.).

This love is called to go beyond the sacred boundaries of the family as a witness. In fact, Rule 17 says:

> “By living the grace of matrimony, husbands and wives should bear witness in the world to the love of Christ for his Church."

Respect for life

It is within a family, that we learn to be born, to live and to die. The family is the privileged space where we practice respect for all people in all circumstances and moments of life: when we are small, adolescents, youth, adults and seniors. A respect that is learned in the everyday life of a Christian:

² Address of Pope Francis to participants in the international meeting for peace sponsored by the Community of "Sant' Egidio" (Clementine Hall Monday, 30 September 2013), in http://w2.vatican.va/content/francesco/en/speeches/2013/september/documents/papa-francesco_20130930_incontro-pace-s-egidio.html

“Secular Franciscans should make space within the family for prayer, for the Word of God, and for Christian catechesis. They should concern themselves with respect for all life in every situation from conception until death.” (Const. OFS 24.1)

Since there is no ideal and perfect couple or family, Pope Francis, responding to a question during the meeting with the engaged couples, said: “This daily journey has some rules that I have repeated often to families … which can be summarized in three words: please, thank you and sorry. 'Please' is a respectful request to enter into the life of someone else … 'Thank you': gratitude is a flower that grows in noble hearts, as an old lady used to say. A noble soul is necessary to make this flower grow. The third word is 'Sorry.' In our lives we make many errors, many mistakes. We all do. … Let us learn to recognize our errors and to ask for forgiveness. Always remember: never end a day without making peace. … If we learn to apologize and to forgive each other, the marriage will last and will move on.”3

Regularly participate in the sacrament of the Eucharist, carefully cultivate the sacrament of reconciliation and practice charity in its various forms. These are an inexhaustible source of graces. Such a lifestyle will also be assimilated by the children, and all will become “sign of a world already renewed in Christ,” says OFS Rule 17, with a reference to Rule of Leo XIII, which, in Chapter II, 8, affirms:

“In family life let them (the members of the Third Order of St. Francis) strive to be examples to others: promoting acts of piety and good works. Do not let books or daily publications enter the home which could harm virtue, and do not permit (these) to be read by those who are under their authority.”

Obviously today we must add all other available means of the digital age.

Two quotes from Vatican Council II (Lumen Gentium, 41.5, and Apostolicam Actuositatem, 30,2.3) found in the text of OFS Rule 17 have an extraordinary synthesis which should be further explored.

A human and spiritual itinerary

When speaking of the education of children, Art. 17 uses the image of the "path", the "route" and puts it this way:

“They should joyfully accompany their children on their human and spiritual journey by providing a simple and open Christian education and being attentive to the vocation of each child.” (Vatican II, Const. on the Church, 41; Decree on Lay Apostolate, 30)

A real and proper education takes into account the processes, the rhythms and the maturing time of each family member, demanding no more than the possibility of each.

It is not, however, any itinerary, but a joyful journey to accompany their children, a human and spiritual journey to take together.

This is very beautiful! Although there may be moments of uncertainty and suffering, there are as many moments of happiness that only those who experience them can really enjoy them all the way and talk about it with authority.

To take this route with courage involves having a clear awareness of one’s own vocation and mission.

In this regard, Pope Francis said: “A good family upbringing is the backbone of humanity. Its radiance in society is the source that allows us to fill in the gaps, wounds and vacuums in parenthood that touch less fortunate children. This radiance can work real miracles. And in the Church these miracles happen every day!”

2. The family in the Constitutions of the OFS

There are eight articles of the OFS Constitution that refer to the family. Articles 12 and 15 are found under the title “The form of Life.” Articles 17.4; 23.1; 23.3; 24 and 25 can be found under the title: “Active presence in the Church and in the world,” and therefore they consider the care of the family as the main form of "apostolic activity."

Finally, in Art.53.3 we find it in the context of fraternal life.

These are all the items listed on the family in the OFS Constitution:

Article 12.1
Gaining inspiration from the example and the writings of Francis and, above all, filled with the grace of the Holy Spirit, each day the brothers and sisters faithfully live the great gift which Christ has given: the revelation of the Father. They should bear witness to this faith before all:
— in family life;
— in work;
— in joy and suffering;
— in encounters with all men and women, brothers and sisters of the same Father;
— in their presence and participation in the life of society;
— in fraternal relationships with all creatures.

Article 15.2
Secular Franciscans, who must provide for their own families and serve society by means of their work and material goods, have a particular manner of living evangelical poverty. To understand and achieve it requires a strong personal commitment and the stimulation of the fraternity through prayer and dialogue, communal review of life, and attentiveness to the instructions of the Church, and the demands of society.

Article 17.4
Participation in the service of sanctification, which the Church exercises through the liturgy, prayer, and works of penance and charity, is put into practice by the brothers and sisters above all in their own family, then in the fraternity and finally through their active presence in the local Church and in society.

Article 23.1
Peace is the work of justice and the fruit of reconciliation and of fraternal love (See Gaudium et Spes 78). Secular Franciscans are called to be bearers of peace in their families and in society:
— they should see to the proposal and spreading of peaceful ideas and attitudes;
— they should develop their own initiatives and should collaborate, individually and as a fraternity, with initiatives of the Pope, the local Churches, and the Franciscan Family;
— they should collaborate with those movements and institutions which promote peace while respecting its authentic foundations.

Article 23.3
To preserve peace in the family, the brothers and sisters should, in due time, make a last will and testament for the disposition of their goods.

Article 24
1. Secular Franciscans should consider their own family to be the first place in which to live their Christian commitment and Franciscan vocation. They should make space within it for prayer, for the Word of God, and for Christian catechesis. They should concern themselves with respect to all life in every situation from conception until death. Married couples find in the OFS Rule an effective aid in their own journey of Christian life, aware that, in the sacrament of matrimony, their love participates in the love that Christ has for his Church. The way spouses love each other and the affirmation of the value of fidelity are a profound witness for their own family, the Church, and the world.

2. In fraternity:
   — the spirituality of the family and of marriage and the Christian attitude towards family problems should be a theme for dialogue and for the sharing of experiences;
   — they should share the important moments of the family life of their Franciscan brothers and sisters and they should give fraternal attention to those — single, widows, single parents, separated, divorced — who are living difficult situations;
   — they should create conditions suitable for dialogue between generations;
   — the formation of groups of married couples and of family groups should be fostered.

3. The brothers and sisters should collaborate with the efforts undertaken in the Church and in society to affirm both the value of fidelity and respect for life and to provide answers to the social problems of the family.

Article 25
Out of the conviction of the need to educate “children to take an interest in community, bringing them the awareness of being living, active members of the People of God” (Apostolicam actuositatem 30) and because of the fascination which Francis can exercise on them, the formation of groups of children should be encouraged. With the help of a pedagogy and an organization suitable to their age, these children should be initiated into a knowledge and love of Franciscan life. National statutes will give appropriate orientation for the organization of these groups and their relationship to the fraternity and to Franciscan youth groups.

Article 53.3
Insertion into a local fraternity and participation in fraternity life is essential for belonging to the OFS. Appropriate initiatives should be adopted according to the directives of the national statutes, to keep those brothers and sisters united to the fraternity who — for valid reasons of health, family, work, or distance — cannot actively participate in community life.

Conclusion
There can be no doubt that the family has special importance in the life of the Secular Franciscan. Art. 17 of the Rule and the articles of the Constitutions confirm this.
